Faculty Passes New Student Handbook

by JAMES AHR

Fr. Richard Wise, C.P.P.S., has been replaced as director of admissions by William Stafford, newly-hired assistant director of admissions, it was announced by Fr. Charles Banet, C.P.P.S., college president, at last Wednesday's faculty meeting.

Banet said "irreconcilable differences in programs" had necessitated the removal of Wise, and said he appreciated Wise's service to the college while in the admissions office.

Stafford was hired by the college on the advice of Johnson Associates, a professional admissions advisory firm, to aid the college's student recruiting efforts.

Johnson Associates were reportedly displeased with present admissions programs and suggested drastic changes in the college's admissions operations.

Differences of opinion over the course that the college's admissions program should take, and the low amount of students enrolled thus far for the 1970-71 school year reportedly led to Wise's removal.

In other business, the faculty approved the Student Life Committee's revision of the Student Handbook, which includes fewer specific regulations and centers on more flexible procedures and policies.

One major change from the Handbook presently in use is the formation of a College Conduct Board, made up of two faculty members, two students, one administrator, and the two personnel deans who would vote in a non-voting capacity.

This was seen as a departure from the present policy of the appropriate personnel dean acting as judge and prosecutor. Under the newly-approved procedure, a student would have the choice of either accepting the judgment of the personnel dean involved or of going before the College Conduct Board.

John Babione, English department chairman, moved that the meetings of the Academic Cabinet be open meetings, that agenda and minutes be distributed to the entire faculty, and that the name be changed from Cabinet to Council.

His motion came as an objection to what he termed the secrecy surrounding Academic Cabinet proceedings, the failure to have concerned persons present when matters pertinent to them were being discussed, the failure of divisional representatives to report back to their constituents and also to the Cabinet restricting the total number of courses in any department to 16.

The motion was tabled until other individuals involved could be present.

The faculty also extended to Arthur Hellyer, retiring chairman of the board of trustees, a vote of gratitude for his years of service to the college. SA President Bill Holda and his fellow officers were likewise voted the thanks of the faculty for their service to the college.

Wells To Address Rensselaer Group

Charles A. Wells, editor and publisher of the national magazine Between the Lines, will address the Rensselaer School of Religion (RSR) at a meeting open to the public this Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Trinity United Methodist Church, Rensselaer.

As part of the RSR's educational function in a community ecumenical effort, Wells will discuss the "Christian Stewardship of the National Budget," dealing with the need of reorientation of governmental priorities in distribution of tax funds.

Wells is noted in Between the Lines for his outspoken criticism of the Vietnam War.

Blue Key To Hold State Of College Convocation On Campus May 6-7

Blue Key National Honor Fraternity announced plans last week for a "State of the College" Convocation, to be held on campus May 6 and 7, according to Tom Madison, Blue Key president.

The Convocation will involve all segments of the college community in a look at the present state of Saint Joseph's, Madison says.

"What we've done, where we're heading, and what our needs and priorities for the future are—all will be topics for discussion," Madison says. "We hope to involve as much of the college community as possible in this program."

Trustees, administrators, staff members, faculty members and students are invited to the Convocation, which will be held in four sessions:

* "Selling the College" will look at the development and admissions departments of the college and the work they do. Such topics as student recruitment, fundraising, public relations and general development of the college are planned for discussion Wednesday afternoon, May 6.

* "From The Outside" will be held Wednesday evening, May 6, and will cover how parents, alumni, and Rensselaer townspeople view and react to Saint Joseph's. This session will discuss such areas as "town-gown" relations, communication and involvement with alumni and parents.

* "View From The Top" will involve trustees and top administrators in a look at the overall state of the college and such topics as future expansion, financial affairs and the general directions in which the college is moving, and will be held Thursday afternoon, May 7.

* "Student Life" will cover the many aspects of a student's life at Saint Joseph's—religious, academic, social, cultural and athletic. The office of student affairs, SA leaders, SAGA and others in this area have been invited to participate in this session on Thursday evening, May 7.

Times and meeting places of the four sessions will be announced next week, Madison says.

Format of each of the four sessions will consist of:

(1) Presentations by the appropriate college department heads or other individuals on the responsibilities, and functions of their departments and on the achievements, problems and future plans of these departments;

(2) Questions will be solicited from faculty, students, and other participants in advance, dealing with any aspect of the sessions, to be answered by panel members;

(3) Discussion will follow from the floor to clear up any points left unclarified or to answer questions generated by the first question period.

Madison emphasized that the accent of the Convocation will be on the positive.

"This Convocation isn't going to be a witch-hunt or a meeting to bring up old feuds again," he says. "Blue Key believes that an open, complete and honest accounting of the college is necessary to maintain the continued success of the college's endeavors."

Boyle, Neville Win In SA Races; Run-Offs To Decide Other Offices

Denny Boyle, junior history major from Hammond, was elected to the office of Student Association vice president and Bob Neville, junior political science and marketing major from Indianapolis, to the office of secretary in yesterday's SA election.

Results of the run-off elections between Al Scappaticci and Fred Giel, candidates for the office of president, and between Jim Egan and Ed Poropat, candidate for the office of treasurer, will be announced tonight.

"I view my victory with mixed emotions," says Boyle. "I am elated by winning and yet realize the magnitude of the job before me." Having numerous innovative ideas for weekend activities in mind, he hopes to be in constant communication with the students on what they would like to see on this campus in the area of social events.

"I want better student representation on committees, involving students from all classes, so that, when the times comes, there will be experienced people to run in SA elections," he adds.

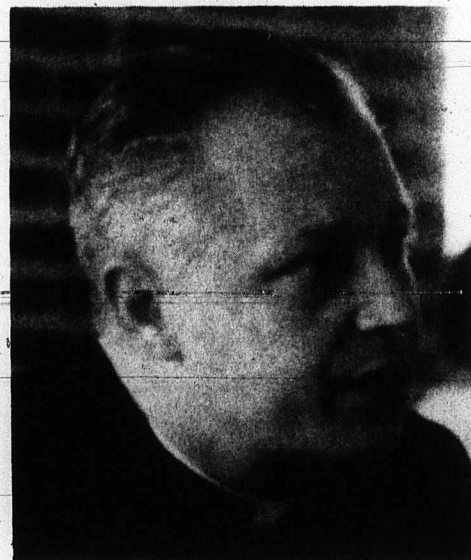

Among his immediate plans for next year are a good, well-planned concert series and a 21-age bar on campus.

Neville has set up two main priorities: student rights and more consideration for the student in regard to student facilities.

"The Student Association in the past," Neville says, "has been too concerned with such things as campus movies. Rather, the SA should be concerned with representing the students to the administration and furthering student rights on campus."

He is in favor of orientating the Student Association to things which affect the student and the college on a long-term basis.

According to Bob Czarniecki, current vice-president and elections committee chairman, a total of 811 votes were cast. The fact that no one running for the offices of president and treasurer received 50 per cent of the votes cast necessitates the need for the run-off election.

Scholarship Dinner Raises $36,000

More than $36,000 was raised for the college's scholarship fund at the First Annual Scholarship Dinner held Friday at the Ambassador West Hotel in Chicago.

The $100-a-plate dinner drew over 350 guests, which netted $36,101.98 for the scholarship fund. All proceeds from the dinner will go into the fund, since the cost of the dinner was paid for by George Halas, Chicago Bears owner and trustee of the college, and Frank Callahan, also a college trustee.

Honored at the dinner were the male and female member of the senior class holding the highest accumulative averages, Robert Kokandy, math major from Whiting, Ind., and Mrs. Rose Brunton, education major from Morocco, Ind.

A telegram from Chicago mayor Richard Daley was read, congratulating the college on its dinner.

James A. Bourke, a vice-president of the First National Bank of Chicago and member of the Board of Trustees, presided over the dinner, which included the Music Department's "Singing Seventeen" performing a program of musical selections. SA President Bill Holda sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Zero For Seven

Who says that students at Saint Joseph's have a share in the decision-making process? After all, isn't having students sitting and voting on college departmental committees just great? Don't students obtain an insight into college operations and don't the college departments profit from learning what students have to say?

Well, only if these committees meet, a condition which seems to be causing somewhat of a problem. After all, if a committee doesn't meet, all this grandiose talk about student participation and involvement doesn't mean a whole lot at all.

Prime offender in this category is the Development Committee, which to date has not met once during the entire school year. That's right, not once.

That's why the students in the picture below don't look too happy. Tom Madison, Bob Czarnecki, Jim Walker and Jan Garbon would truly enjoy going to a Development Committee meeting. If there's ever going to be one.

The Development Committee is to be sure not the only offender in this area. And granted, committee meetings aren't the lifeblood of anything and may often seem to be more of a hindrance than a help. But really, now: 0 meetings for 7 months of school does seem to be a bit ridiculous.

Participation on departmental committees isn't glamorous and exciting, but it is a welcome and wise move to make if college departments sincerely want to obtain the student viewpoint and if the student is to actually play a participatory role in the educational process. If the college wants to make departmental participation what it's supposed to be, how about holding some meetings once in a while?—J. A.

Conscious Minority

This weekend a student group of Saint Joseph's students will embark upon one of the most ambitious, relevant programs in recent college history. Or, more precisely, they embarked upon the program months ago and this weekend will culminate the arduous, dedicated efforts of those months of preparation.

The student group, of course, is the Black Student Union, and their program is this state's first Black University weekend.

Although only a minute fraction of the student body, the BSU is offering the college a weekend comparable in size to any SA social extravaganza and beyond comparison in its potential value to the entire student body, faculty and administration, to say nothing of the visiting participants.

The BSU's efforts thus far have produced a series of classes and lectures, the contemporary value of which is self-evident. (See schedule at right.) Whether the college community as a whole has the same interest and concern in today's revolution will be made evident this weekend.—S. T. S.

Justice Found In Trap(pist)

By Art Hoppe

Washington, Aug. 14, 1972 — A White House spokesman denied today that President Nixon plans to send General Curtis LeMay to law school.

The report cropped up following the Senate's rejection of Mr. Nixon's 17th candidate for the long-vacant Supreme Court seat.

The rejection of the candidate, Antonius Prior of Tallahassee, Fla., was a bitter blow to Attorney General John Mitchell. Mitchell had personally conducted a two-year investigation into every waking hour of the candidate's life.

"This time," Mitchell had said, "we are absolutely sure the candidate owns no stock, thinks of all men as brothers, has never made a racist statement nor even an intemperate remark in 30 years, and can be counted on to maintain a dignified silence while under attack."

In voting for rejection, however, Senate opponents cited the doctrine of separation of church and state — Brother Antonius, as he is known, being a Trappist monk.

White House hopes for Senate approval had been higher than at any time since 1970 when Mr. Nixon nominated his third candidate to the Supreme Court — Senator Strom Thurmond.

Political observers at the time hailed the Thurmond nomination as a brilliant piece of Mr. Nixon's Southern Strategy. Not only did the President thus finally pay off Thurmond for his support in 1968, but he consolidated Southern backing against the gravest threat he faces in 1972 — Governor George Wallace.

Senator Thurmond seemed ideal. He was a Southerner, a strict constructionist and he had legal experience, having served as City Attorney of Edgeville, S. C., in 1929. Moreover, his confirmation was assured as a matter of Senatorial courtesy.

Unfortunately, Senator Thurmond himself rejected the nomination. "I've been fighting the Supreme Court man and boy for 60 years," he said, "and I'm not about to go over to the enemy."

After that, the White House admitted, the selection grew more difficult. Mr. Nixon took to calling prospects personally. "Hi, there," he would say. "I just want you to know that next to Haynsworth, Carswell and Thurmond, I think you're the greatest judge in the country and... Hello? Hello?"

(Some feel that Brother Antonius, who is of course under a vow of silence, was nominated simply because he couldn't say, "No!") His habit in recent weeks of constantly shaking his head vigorously from side to side, however, was described by the White House as "a nervous tic."

In any event, experts agree Mr. Nixon has now more than repaid Thurmond by sending the names of 13 other Southern constructionists to the Senate. None was mediocre — the caliber of candidates having deteriorated since Judge Carswell.

But the President still faces the problem of removing the threat Governor Wallace poses to his reelection chances. He may well have solved that problem, however, with tonight's late announcement from the White House:

"The President will send to the Senate tomorrow the name of a true Southerner, a strict constructionist and a distinguished jurist who served as judge of the Third Judicial District of Alabama from 1953 to 1958 — Governor George Wallace."

Golfers Win Two As Spring Sports Open

By JOHN RILEY

Tennis, golf, track, and football participants leaped into action this week with the advent of the spring sports season.

The tennis team, coached by Ernie Fritsch, opened its 11-match season by losing to Rose Poly Friday, 5-2, and to Butler Saturday, 7-0. The six-man traveling squad that represents SJC consists of John Barthold, Gordon Moffit, Phil Chung, Dale Hoyt, Tom Gonwa and Frank Fitzgerald.

Fritsch has been apprehensive about the season due to the fact that fewer freshmen turned out than were expected, and of those who did, few have had previous tennis experience.

Off to a good start, the golf team, coached by Richard Scharf, director of athletics, began its season with a double victory, a 10-7 win over Wabash, and an 11-7 effort over Rose Poly at Crooked Stick Country Club in Carmel, Ind., last Friday.

Four returning lettermen, Bill Prindiville, Chuck Hall, Bob McCready, and George Cavallari lead the squad. The fifth position on the traveling crew has not yet been determined due to the tough competition among the other linksmen on the team.

Scharf is encouraged by the performances of the team, as both victorious matches were played in inclement weather. He states that there is little difference in this year's team from last year's, and predicts Butler and Evansville to be the most solid ICC competitors.

The track team, coached by Don Weishaar, boasts a roster of 21, 12 of whom are freshmen. Strength in the 100-yard dash and the 220 will come mainly from the efforts of letterman Phil Germane.

Dave Riley is expected to carry most of the weight in the pole vault, high jump and broad jump. In the 880, 440, shot put, and javelin, the team will rely mainly on the strength of the untested freshmen.

The track schedule, which began Tuesday with a 135-10 loss at Anderson, includes meets to be held Saturday at Manchester and Monday against Huntington College at Saint Joseph's. This marks the first time in several years SJC has hosted a track meet. Other meets occur April 23rd at Goshen, April 29th with Rose Poly here, May 2nd at Anderson, and the ICC meet at Valpo May 9th, and a head-to-head contest with Valpo May 16th.

Spring football swung into gear as 71 men, including 30 returning lettermen, under the leadership of head coach Bill Jennings, donned pads and began preparations for the 1970 opener against Olivet, September 12, in Michigan.

The team is divided into two offensive and defensive squads. Jennings says this division allows the newcomers a chance to integrate with the lettermen and also provides for regular substitutions.

Jennings adds that the high enthusiasm, hustle, desire, and hard-hitting aggressiveness of the team is typical of past Puma teams. Mental mistakes are being made, but the players should realize the extent of their talent and eliminate these mistakes in time, he notes.

Winning their second Little 500 Championship in a row, the West Seifert team turned in 77 laps in the two-hour contest last Saturday.

Pumas Soak Butler

In a rain-drenched week, the Pumas defeated Butler 5-1 in last Saturday's ICC opener, cancelled five games because of the weather, and began preparations for a crucial series with Evansville, Purdue, and the University of Illinois.

Ron Unavitch, 2-1, fired a first-rate four-hitter against the Bulldogs in a rain-shortened seven-inning contest. The Saints evened their season record at 3-3 and increased their win streak to three in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader.

Key hits by Dan McCarthy and Unavitch, and alert base running by Mark "Muskra" Swary led the Pumas' attack. McCarthy and Unavitch each contributed two RBI's and two doubles, while Swary's two stolen bases accounted for three of the Saints' runs.

The second game of the doubleheader was rained out, as was Monday's doubleheader with Chicago State in Chicago, and Tuesday's doubleheader against Huntington College at Huntington, Ind. The Chicago State twin bill has been rescheduled for May 6, while a rematch with the Huntington squad may be played Apr. 27. The rained-out Butler game will not be rescheduled.

The Pumas travel to Evansville Saturday to play the Aces in an ICC doubleheader. The Aces, who lost a doubleheader to Valparaiso last Saturday, boast a strong hitting team with an average mound staff.

Monday the Saints host the Purdue Boilermakers in a single game, before traveling to the University of Illinois Tuesday for a solo contest with the tough Big Ten contender.

The Saints have triumphed only twice in 16 previous clashes with the Boilermakers. They have yet to cop a single game from the University of Illinois squad, which has swept the three previous contests.

PUMA PRINTS

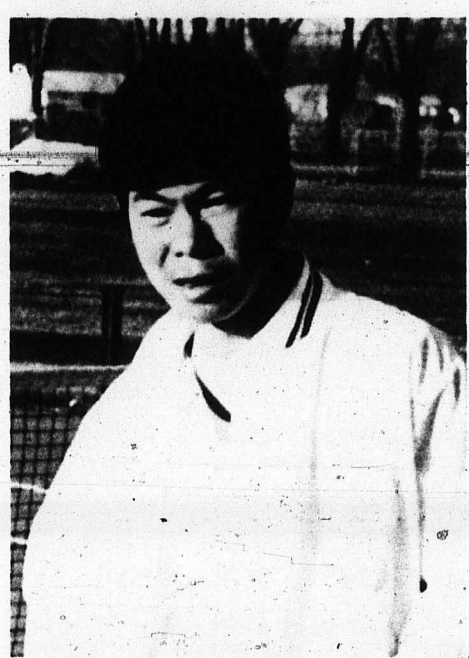

By PAT RIHA

The spring Indiana monsoon season has rained out 12 of SJC's first 18 games, but it hasn't dampened the determination of the team to have a good season.

The Saints have kept their heads above water with a team batting average of .327. Dave Ruhe has slammed three homers and collected nine RBI's, while leading team regulars with a .471 average.

Ron Unavitch, the do-everything-guy for the Pumas, combines a .428 batting average and a fine 1.50 ERA in three mound outings. Mark (Muskra) Swary keeps slipping along at a .388 hitting clip, while having the dubious honor of leading the team with six miscues in the field. Dan McCarthy, Mike Scudder, and frosh sensation Tom Nixon balance the Puma attack with .333 batting averages.

Now, if only all this midwest "sunshine" will halt for a while, the Pumas may begin to play the ball they are capable of.

CHUNG

The doubles team of Phil Chung and Tom Gonwa coupled with the singles effort of Frank Fitzgerald kept the Saints from being skunked twice in this weekend's tennis action.

Chung and Gonwa won their two sets 9-7 and 8-6 over Rose Poly opponents. Fitzgerald copped the Saints' lone singles victory in the meet. Rose Poly bested the Pumas 5-2 Friday. In other net action, the Pumas were blanked by a much stronger Butler team, 7-0, Saturday.

Belated congratulations to Henry Davis, guard on the freshman basketball team, for being named "Star of the Game" by radio station WDAN, Danville, Ill., for his outstanding contributions and play during the game between SJC and Danville Jr. College last December. The Saints lost the outing, 84-77.

Puma Keglers mauled Chicago State 9-2 last week in preparation for the Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling Conference Tournament April 26 at Loras College, Dubuque, Iowa.

Jim White led the Saints with 234 and 206 games. Ed Niebuhr contributed a 208 game as the keggers evened their second semester record at 2-2.

Curriculum Blunder Spurs Co-ed Resentment

Co-eds presently majoring in physical education have been advised that they will not be able to graduate with a degree in that subject and that no additional co-eds will be admitted into the physical education program.

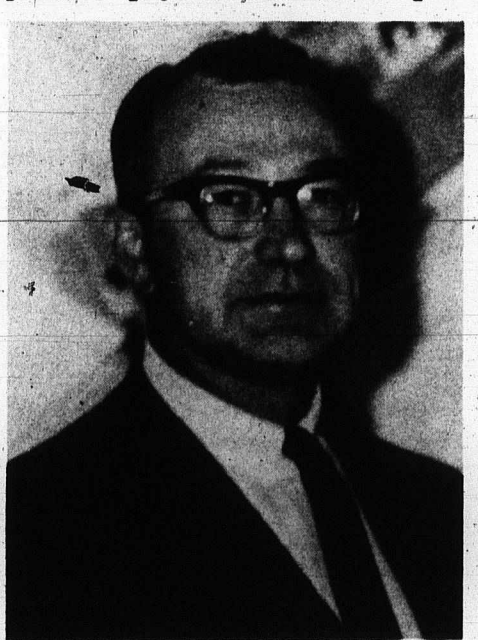

Female physical education majors can either change their major or may be able to commute to Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., or Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind., to fulfill upper level requirements in that area.

Inadequate teaching personnel and facilities and a lack of planning by the college have led to the situation, which forces the ten co-eds presently majoring in physical education to basically choose between changing their major or transferring to another school.

The co-eds were accepted by the college Admissions Office as physical education majors without the Admissions Office consulting with the Physical Education Department if such a major would be offered to co-eds.

The Admissions Office was reportedly under the impression then that no modifications in the present physical education program were needed to accommodate female students.

The decision to advise the girls to consider changing their majors or to transfer was made by Richard Scharf, chairman of the physical education department, who admits:

SCHARF

"Right now, we cannot afford a program that would be competitive with other schools."

He sees the principal problem as a lack of adequate facilities: needed are separate areas for specialized training, such as archery, field hockey and basketball. Also needed would be personnel to staff such a program.

Miss Nancy Messman, girls' physical education teacher at Rensselaer Central High School, has been hired on a part-time basis to help alleviate the situation. More personnel are needed, though, if upper-level requirements are to be offered.

Reaction to the present situation has been strong with the co-eds involved.

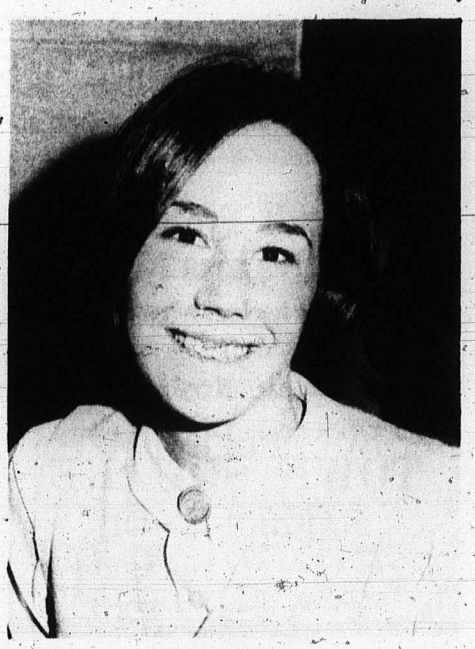

"I will not change majors," declares Barb Freeman, sophomore from Sayreville, N.J., "but I don't like the idea of driving to Valpo or Purdue to fulfill any requirements Saint Joe's should give me."

Equally adamant is Cindy Smith, sophomore from Lancaster, Pa.: "I only have one real alternative—I'm going to transfer." Next September, she will transfer to Lock Haven State College, Lock Haven, Pa.

The athletic department of Saint Joseph's College has revealed the recent signing of Greg DeAth, 6-5½ forward from Danville, Ill., Junior College.

A 1968 graduate of Fountain Central High School at Veederburg, Ind., DeAth averaged 19 points and 13 rebounds per game for Danville in 1969-70.

Saint Joe basketball coach Jim Holstein is looking for DeAth to lend scoring and rebounding power to the Pumas' front line, which last year averaged better than 55 rebounds per game.

SJC To Participate In Ecology Teach-In

Saint Joseph's will participate in a national Environmental Teach-In next Wednesday, April 22, with day-long speeches, panel discussions, and a movie, according to Fr. Emil Labbe, C.P.P.S., vice-president for student affairs.

Mrs. Harlan Noel, dean of women and a member of the Committee for Clean Air for the Calumet Region of Indiana, will begin the Teach-In by answering the question, "What Is the Problem?" Wednesday at 10 a.m. A documentary film will accompany Mrs. Noel's address.

"Environmental Problems Related to the Minerals Producing Industry" will be discussed at 1 p.m. by Dr. Michael Holloway, chemist at Inland Steel Corp., and Bryce McDonald, director of engineering at Kennecott Copper Corp. This discussion will be moderated by Michael Davis, chairman of the geology department.

Representatives from Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago and Standard Oil Co. of Indiana will explain "Environmental Problems Related to the Energy Producing Industries" at 3 p.m. in a discussion moderated by Fr. Donald Ballmann, C.P.P.S., associate professor of geology.

An evening session, moderated by Andrew Mehall, biology department chairman, will investigate solutions to pollution in a panel with Dr. William Conway, economics department chairman, Dr. John Bucholtz, political science department chairman, Schuyler Robinson, managing editor of the Rensselaer Republican, and others yet to be named.

major from Clarksville, Ind.; and Edward Zgonc, political science major from Avon, O.

The nominees are selected on the basis of their scholarship, extracurricular activities, and the esteem they are held in by their fellow classmates.

Winner of the award will be announced on Parents' Day, May 3, and the presentation of a plaque and $100 will be made at graduation ceremonies, May 31.

Vietnam Poll Taken

Results of the Vietnam War poll taken Monday and Tuesday in both cafeterias were released yesterday by the Peace Union, local organizers of the poll.

Out of a total of 492 students answering the question, "Are you for the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam?" 347 responded "yes" to the question and 145 answered "no."

These results will be sent to the American University Student Association and the Student Mobilization Committee in Washington, D.C., where the national results will be tabulated.

Sweet Charity.

Sunday, 7:30 and 10 p.m.

Shirley MacLaine, John McMartin, Sammy Davis

MacLaine, as Charity, continually falls in love with losers in this entertaining adaptation of the Broadway musical. On the whole, this is a fine film, but some of the best numbers tend to upstage the main star.

The Bedford Incident

Wednesday, 10 p.m.

Richard Widmark, Sidney Poitier, Wally Cox

A motion picture of breathless nerve-tingling conflict that rages from the mind and manner of a single man, to the nerve-torn crews of two vessels embattled with each other and with the elements. Powerful action and drama aboard a submarine during the Second World War.

SJC Band, Glee Club To Tour 7 Countries

The Saint Joseph's College Band and Glee Club will tour Europe for 22 days, beginning May 27, according to Gary Smith, assistant professor of music and band and tour director. Also performing in the 120-member group will be the Women's Chorus of Alverno College (Milwaukee).

The group will travel through seven countries, including Luxembourg, Germany, Austria, England, Ireland, Belgium, and the Netherlands, and will perform ten to 15 concerts.

The repertoire will consist mainly of contemporary American music and will feature Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana," and other popular selections.
